

TEXAS STORM TAKES LIFE AND PROPERTY

Damage From Galveston to Brownsville Runs Into Hundred Thousands.

RAIN STILL FALLING

Weather Bureau Predicts Let-up—Relief Is Mobilized.

By United Press.
HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 15.—One man is known to have been drowned, property damage is expected to run into the hundred thousand dollars, rail and wire damage is considerable, traffic intercourses impossible, and shipments are delayed as a result of a tropical storm which struck the Texas coast from Galveston to Brownsville.

The loss is greatest between Corpus Christi and Brownsville, although driving rains still sweep Houston and Galveston. The weather bureau believes the worst has passed, however. Workers were being mobilized for a movement to replace the rail and wire. Galveston is still isolated as far as direct communication is concerned.

in the state. It is ideally located and in one of the most intelligent and progressive communities in the state. The building, its surroundings and its history render it an ideal country club.

"Many churches have grown out of this. Among them have been Cedar in 1821, Nashville, Union and others. "Its architecture, its location in the forest dell, by this quiet stream, near to Ohio God's acre, wherein sleep the noble men and women who have made it illustrious, its participation in all the important events of our denomination for a hundred years give it a romantic, a cherished and an imperishable place in the history of Missouri Baptists.

Bonne Femme Academy.

"The community in which Bonne Femme Church is located has always been marked for its intelligence, its property and its culture. Many of the finest citizens of Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky sought the fertile country that surrounded it in those pioneer days and proceeded to develop a social life very akin to that of the famous Blue Grass region of Kentucky.

"It is not strange therefore, that in addition to a deep religious spirit they manifested a profound interest in education of the higher order. In fact they were the forerunners of the period which brought the State University to the county. They planted the first seed for higher education in this county when they organized an academy and erected a building on the ground upon which the church stands.

"The first session opened in May, 1829, with Warren Woodson as teacher. He was a kinsman of Judge Warren Woodson, who for forty years was clerk of the Boone County Court.

"The first trustees of the academy were Mason Moss, William Shields, Robert S. Barr, Andrew McPheters and Sinclair Kirtley. The building was of brick with two rooms each 22 feet square. It was located about 200 feet east of the church building. The school was conducted. The sessions comprised two terms of five and one-half months each and the tuition fees for the two terms were $2 for reading, writing and arithmetic, $12 for grammar, geography and the higher mathematics, and $18 for Latin. Board was $113 per week and it was first-class board at that."

The Brilliant Star of "THE HEART OF HUMANITY" in Her new masterpiece

"DESTINY"

From the Novel by CHARLES NEVILLE BUCK

Mary Burton (Dorothy Phillips) had dared oppose her all-powerful brother, Hamilton Burton, known and feared throughout "The Heart of Humanity" as a conqueror of colonies. She had defied him when he forbade her to marry Jefferson Edwards. And so Hamilton Burton had secured Edwards's ruin.

He had his way—as usual. In bringing Edwards's ruin he brought others with him, and one of these, abandoned by his leaves set out to kill the author of his misfortune. Edwards sought to stay the maniac, and secured in his own hand the bullet intended for Burton. Mary held him in her arms, and her thoughts went back to her brother.

He had his way—as usual. And then—
