

Happy New Year

Nineteen-Twenty. What its mystic book of three hundred and sixty-six pages holds for us none can foretell. But it's a promising volume. Its cover is a bright, radiant one, its golden edge pages give every promise of peace, joy and prosperity and today as we turn the cover to its title page we find it transcribed with hope, with faith and with every aspect of glorious opportunity. Those dark, grim, blood-blotted volumes of war times we have put away in the archives of the past—treasured only in the recollection of the triumphs which they developed for us and humanity—imperishable record of the heroism and patriotism which they revealed in our men and women and consecrated to the memory of our martyrs. The book of nineteen-nineteen which we have just closed started us bravely along the Road of Tranquility and yet held us deeply absorbed in the problems of Reconstruction. And now comes this newer, brighter volume in The Library of Time by the Author of All Things. What it will develop is already written in the Chapters of Fate, with each day's rising sun melting the seal of another page. We may not read hurriedly, nor ahead. We can but hope and wish to all A Happy and Prosperous New Year.

To Our Good Friends—One and All

We Wish You a Happy, Prosperous and Useful New Year. It is a great thing to carry a smile with you wherever you go, and why not carry this smile into the New Year? You will if you join our Christmas Savings Club for 1920. And you will carry a smile into the spring—and the summer—and the autumn—and the first thing you know it will be Christmas again and you will hardly realize it because the year has passed so happily.
